Grab your sunglasses and gather the family to join us for a summer celebration at Stanley Park on August 17, and August 22 in the Pittsfield area (more info and location to come)!

The Easthampton picnic tends to attract families with younger children, and young adults usually attend the Pittsfield picnic.

At Stanley Park we will provide a sandwich picnic lunch and will be set up for lawn games and some special picnic activities.

Please help us with our Side Dish Picnic Potluck and show off your favorite family picnic recipes. If your last name begins with A-L, please bring a cold dish to share, or if your last name starts with M-Z, please bring a dessert if you can!

Enjoy an afternoon of family, friends, food and relaxation. RSVP to Danielle via email or call 413-529-2428 for either location so we can be sure to have enough goodies for everyone.

We will provide more information about the Pittsfield area picnic on our facebook page soon, so stay tuned for the details.

Do you or your business want to support our family picnics as a sponsor? A little goes a long way. Please contact Joanne Lucey at joanne.lucey@pathlightgroup.org.
The Autism Collaborative of Berkshire County (ACBC) held its last meeting of the year on Friday June 21. Stephanie Krantz and Nancy Murphy from the Disability Law Center (DLC) presented. Each year, the Disability Law Center goes through a priority setting process. This includes community outreach across the state to identify legal issues and barriers people with disabilities are facing. They use this information to set their agency priorities for the upcoming year. They are particularly interested in getting input from Berkshire County providers and families on ways they can help the community (i.e. training, know your rights materials, helping to collaborate, identifying systemic barriers).

Stephanie and Nancy walked away with some great input from the attendees at the meeting regarding topics for setting next year’s priorities. The Disability Law Center is still soliciting information from the public. If you or someone you know would like to share their thoughts (especially Berkshire County residents), please visit the Law Center’s website and complete the survey: https://www.dlc-ma.org/priorities-survey/. You can also email their general email on the website to provide information.

ACBC meetings are open to the public. We welcome anyone who would like to learn more about autism resources in the community to attend. We encourage fellow services providers, educators, and families to bring information to share with the group or to display on our resource table.

ACBC meetings will resume in September 2019. If you have questions about The Autism Collaborative of Berkshire County, please call or email Erica Donovan at 413-443-4780 X19 or Erica.donovan@pathlightgroup.org. Have a great summer!

Looking for summer fun in North Adams? Check out the SteepleCats!

The biggest crowd ever to watch a SteepleCats game at Joe Wolfe Field was 6,714 on July 4, 2006. That day, the Holyoke Giants defeated the SteepleCats 3-2 in twelve innings in the SteepleCats’ annual Fourth of July game.

“I remember watching a game at Joe Wolfe Field one time with former Major League Baseball Commissioner Fay Vincent,” says Barrett. “As the sun was setting we were looking down the left field line out into the mountains, and he said ‘it doesn’t get any better than this.’”
Ideas for Summer Reading

Summer is here, and hopefully some extra time for a child to enjoy a new book or two. Applied Behavioral Analysis Programs has put together a wonderfully varied list of books for children to read, or share with their siblings or friends and family. Here is the full list: https://www.appliedbehavioranlysprograms.com/30-best-childrens-books-about-the-autism-spectrum/. Share your favorites with a teacher next fall and happy reading!

All Cats Have Asperger Syndrome (Jessica Kingsley Publishers, 2006), Kathy Hoopmann, Ages 7 and Up

Not only does this delightful book include fun color photographs of cats and kittens, it also offers a humorous glimpse at some of the difficulties and joys of raising a child on the autism spectrum. Hoopmann draws insightful parallels between children with Asperger Syndrome and household cats, including sensitive hearing, picky eating habits, and a dislike of being touched.

All My Stripes: A Story for Children with Autism (Magination Press, 2015), Shaina Rudolph and Danielle Royer, Ages 5-8

Zane the zebra has autism, and he is worried that his friends and classmates will make fun of his stripes, which make him different. As Zane learns that having autism is one of the many things that actually makes him special, young readers will relate to Zane and realize that they, too, have plenty to be proud of.

This bestselling book by Jennifer Cook O’Toole (who is both an Aspie herself and a mother of three children with Asperger’s) is a must-read guide for any teen or tween on the autism spectrum. The book is full of illustrations, humor, and easy-to-understand explanations of important social rules that may not be so obvious to a child on the spectrum. The book was named the Autism Society America 2014 Temple Grandin Outstanding Book of the Year and made the Autism/ASP Digest Top Books list.

Children will learn to respect and appreciate their peers with differences through author Ellen Sabin’s “The Autism Acceptance Book.” This interactive, educational book presents the challenges faced by those on the autism spectrum through respectful stories that are sure to build the characters of young readers.

Autism, the Invisible Cord: A Sibling’s Diary (Magination Press, 2012), Barbara Cain, 12-15

Siblings of children with autism will relate to 14-year old Jenny, the narrator of “Autism, the invisible Cord.” Jenny describes what it’s like to live day to day with her autistic brother, Ezra. With complete honesty, Jenny chronicles all of her frustrations, hopes, and love for her brother.

The Categorical Universe of Candice Phee (Chronicle Books; Reprint edition, 2015), Barry Jonsberg, Ages 9-12

Barry Jonsberg’s novel “The Categorical Universe of Candice Phee” tells the story of a 12-year old girl on the autism spectrum. Candice has plenty of quirks, and her lovable nature is sure to make any young reader happy to jump on board her adventure.

How to Be Human: Diary of an Autistic Girl (Creston Books, 2013), Florida Frenz, Ages 7-12

Florida Frenz, an autistic teenager, wrote this powerful memoir about what it’s like to be on the autism spectrum. She documents everything from how to handle peer pressure to what it’s like to have to figure out social cues, read facial expressions, and have to work extra hard to make friends. This book is used in a number of classrooms around the country, and a
The Summer Food Service Program, known as Summer Eats in Massachusetts, is a federally-funded nutrition program that provides free meals to children ages 18 and under when school is not in session. Healthy Incentives

Eating fruits and vegetables each day is important for your health. The Healthy Incentives Program (HIP) helps you buy more fruits and vegetables for your household.

If you are a SNAP household you will be automatically enrolled in HIP. You can use your SNAP benefits to buy fruits and vegetables from a HIP authorized farm or vendor. Look for the HIP logo or ask the vendor if they participate in the program before you pay for your purchase.

You will receive $1 for each dollar you spend on eligible fruits and vegetables, up to a monthly limit. You can earn HIP incentives at participating:

- Farmers’ markets
- Farm stands
- Mobile markets
- Community supported agriculture (CSA) farm share programs

Learn more about participating vendors here: https://massnrc.org/farmlocator/map.aspx?Program=HIP.

“SummerEats”

This Newberry Honor Book is a humorous and heartwarming tale about what it’s like to have an autistic younger brother and a family in which it’s impossible to live a normal life. Twelve-year old Catherine attempts to teach her younger brother how to be normal — “keep your pants on in public” — while she herself figures out just what “normal” means.

This bilingual children’s book from the Autism Story series was the recipient of the 2005 Barbara Jordan Media Award. Aimed at a broad audience of young readers, parents, siblings, family members, and medical professionals, the story is about two brothers, Michael and Thomas. Thomas does not understand his four-year old brother’s behavior and can’t figure out how to play with him. When a therapist explains to Thomas that Michael is autistic, Thomas learns how to better relate to his brother.

Every parent of an autistic child wishes to get inside the autistic mind, and this book helps to make that a reality. Thirteen-year old Naoki Higashida cannot physically speak out loud, but uses an alphabet grid to carefully construct the answers to common questions people have about those on the spectrum. Why do you line up your toy cars and blocks? Why don’t you make eye contact when you’re talking? Higashida’s book is charming and almost painfully honest. It was a New York Times bestseller, and spent 7 weeks on NPR’s Hardcover Nonfiction Bestseller List. In her review of the book, Dr. Temple Grandin stated, “Everybody who is working with nonverbal individuals with autism should read it.”
WEBINARS

Gender Identity, Sexuality, Autism
An AANE webinar for adults on the spectrum and parents of teens/adults on the spectrum
Monday, July 22, 2019, 7:00 p.m.—8:30 p.m., ONLINE
Host: Eva Mendes and Meredith Maroney (AANE staff)
Fee: $25.00, register by July 21.
REGISTER
In this webinar, based on their new book, Gender Identity, Sexuality, and Autism, Eva Mendes and Meredith Maroney will share personal experiences, and discuss emerging research on the intersection of autism and LGBTQ+ identities. There will also be one adult sharing their first person story after Eva and Meredith’s presentation.

Eva Mendes is an Asperger/autism specialist, psychotherapist, and couples counselor based in Arlington, MA who works exclusively with autistic individuals, their partners, and families. She is the author of Marriage and Lasting Relationships with Asperger’s Syndrome and Gender Identity, Sexuality and Autism, which she co-authored with Meredith Maroney. Her website is www.eva-mendes.com.

Meredith Maroney is a doctoral candidate in Counseling Psychology at the University of Massachusetts Boston. Her research and clinical interests are focused on LGBTQ+ identities and concerns, autism, and psychotherapy interventions. Beginning in August, she will be completing her doctoral internship at the University at Albany Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS).

Conway Scenic Railways

Fridays, July 12, 19, 26, 30; Norcross Circle, North Conway, NH; Fares: Adults—$19, Children 4-12—$13, under 4—free; REGISTER

Conway Scenic Railways is offering regularly-scheduled departures for children with autism. The rides will depart from the main station in North Conway Village at 4:00 p.m. on each Friday in July, using the rail-diesel car, the Millie. It will travel through the Pudding Pond conservation area along the Redstone Branch of the line, returning to the station at approximately 5:00 p.m.

The Millie is air-conditioned, so there will be no open windows, and all crossings will be hand-flagged to reduce or eliminate the need for the train horn’s use. Travel speed is about 10 mph. Each child will be given a gift bag with quiet activities (coloring books, temporary tattoos, etc.).
