Golf in the Berkshires

Opportunity to support Autism Connections and play some golf!

There are many golf tournaments to choose from this summer, but Buddy’s Sunshine Angels Golf tournament for Autism is special. You will be joining Jennie and Joe Clark in honoring their son Buddy, and in helping other children and adults with autism by supporting Autism Connections.

Bas Ridge Golf Course in Hinsdale hosts the tournament on August 24 for 2 and 4 person teams. The $80 entry fee includes 18 holes with a cart, raffle opportunities and food throughout the day.

For more information, contact Joe at 413-212-2443, download a brochure here, or download raffles, donation and sponsorship details here.

Family Picnics in Westfield and Pittsfield

Have you been able to attend a picnic yet this summer? Our annual family picnics offer a welcoming environment with activities, food, and the opportunity to feel supported and connected to a larger community. If you have not yet attended an Autism Connections’ picnic, please come! If you are a regular every year, we look forward to seeing you again. Please RSVP to Danielle for both events. Activities include juggling lessons and a performance from the folks at SHOW Circus Studio! Please click the individual flyers below for more info.

Resource Directory

Autism Connections’ Resource Directory is now live on our website! Our goal is to provide a database of resources for families in Franklin, Berkshire, Hampshire and Hampden counties. If you have had positive experiences with providers, please share the provider link with them so they can submit their information and other families can also benefit from their services. The provider link is here, and the searchable database is here. Let us know if you have any comments or suggestions.
Berkshire County

Autism Collaborative of Berkshire County

Berkshire Family Picnic

Autism Connections
Thursday, August 29, 2019
5:00 p.m.—7:00 p.m.
Pittsfield State Forest Ski Lodge

Join us for a family picnic at the beautiful Pittsfield State Forest Ski Lodge. Let’s celebrate the season before the summer turns to fall!

Enjoy an afternoon of family, friends, activities, food and relaxation.

We will provide the meal and beverages, but dessert will be Potluck, so bring your favorites to share. Invite your extended family for a no-fuss celebration for all ages. RSVPs to Danielle are required so we have enough food for everyone!

Enjoy an afternoon of family, friends, activities, food and relaxation.

You are invited to join The Berkshire Autism Initiative for an evening of awareness, entertainment, and premium wines with Pop and R&B singer-songwriter Matt Cusson at Balderdash Cellars in Richmond on Saturday, August 31, 2019, 6:30-8:30 p.m. Your $25 ticket includes 2 complimentary glasses of wine of your choice and entertainment. Find more information on our website.
Getting Back to School

What you can do to prepare for school

1. When can my child and I visit the school and the teachers before school begins?
Visiting ahead of time also gives us an opportunity to meet teachers on a more relaxed and one-on-one time and gives the opportunity to share with them without feeling the pressure of other parents or children waiting in line at an open-house.
Tip: Bring a little treat as a thank you to the teachers who make time for us to visit ahead of time.

2. What will my child’s day look like? What will their schedule be?
It can help kids to talk through school schedules before school begins, especially if there are therapies during the day. You can practice getting around the building to follow a schedule to make sure your child knows where every classroom is, how to get there and to get an idea of how long it will take her to go from classroom to classroom. This is especially important to do before school begins and hallways are crowded.

3. Who will be providing supports for my child and when?
If the school doesn’t know yet, that could be a problem that needs to be addressed right away.

4. Have all my child’s teachers received a copy of the IEP?
This is especially important for kids in middle school and high school who have multiple teachers.
Tip: When you visit teachers ahead of time, bring a copy of the IEP for each teacher highlighting the important sections that apply to that particular class. Or, write your own “cheat sheet” version of the IEP and go through it with the teacher. Don’t just hand it out. Invite the teacher to ask questions, too.

5. What are the teachers’ expectations for my child?
Some teachers have low expectations, and some may have unrealistic expectations you know will frustrate your child. Take this as an opportunity where only you, the teacher and your child can talk about this together.
Tip: Discuss academic, behavioral, social and physical expectations.

6. Are you aware of my child’s behaviors and triggers?
Some kids may display behaviors due to being overwhelmed or not feeling regulated. Discuss this with all their teachers ahead of time. You will be helping not only the teachers but your child as well.

7. Do you know how to help my child when he is triggered or overwhelmed?
Take this as an opportunity to offer suggestions to the teachers. As the parent, you know best how to help. But invite your child, if they are able, to be the ones to offer suggestions.

8. What is the best way to contact you regarding my child and receive a timely response?
This is really important. Some teachers check their email constantly, some only once a day. Some might even be open to text messages. Make sure you know ahead of time what each teacher prefers and what is most likely to get a prompt response. Also, discuss with them what you consider to be a prompt response — and be reasonable.

9. What is the plan if my child needs a break?
Pushing a child past a certain point can result in a meltdown when a break could have been sufficient to help them get regulated. It is important to discuss with all teachers what they prefer our kid say or do when they need that break. Again, expectations.

10. Where can my child go if he/she feels overwhelmed or has a meltdown?
When kids are unable to get regulated, it is no surprise it results in being overwhelmed or having a meltdown. For some kids, it is important to know there is a place in the building they can go to if they are extremely overwhelmed or have a meltdown. Some schools have sensory rooms. Some teachers have pop-up tents in their classrooms. Kids need to know there is a safe pace in the school when their emotions feel out of control. What is that place?

11. Who are “safe people” my child can look for if they need help?
Who are the people your child can talk to if they begin to feel overwhelmed? Who does your child talk to if they are being bullied? Who are the safe people they know they can talk to outside of their teachers? Ask your child as well — they may have a preference. If they do, let teachers know who your child has designed as their “safe people.”

12. Who will my child be having lunch with?
It may seem like a silly question, but for some of our kids, this is important. You are basically asking, what is the lunch plan? Yes, most kids have lunch with their friends, but things like friendships can be hard, especially for those who are nonverbal. Some kids have lunch with their special education class. Some kids end up eating lunch alone and being isolated. Some kids get bullied during lunch. Don’t be afraid to request someone keep an eye for your child during lunch, especially as school begins and your child establishes a routine.

13. Who do I contact if I have academic concerns?
Our kids tend to have an entire team of “teachers”. So if you have a question about reading progress, do you contact the homeroom teacher, the special education teacher or the reading specialist? Knowing who to contact for academic concerns will make the process go better.

14. Who do I contact if I have concerns about my child’s social and emotional interactions at school?
Typically, teachers only see what happens inside their classroom (and some things may go unnoticed). Knowing who the person is who can help your child if the need arises is crucial.

15. What will you do to prevent and tackle bullying?
Knowing ahead of time what the school will do to prevent bullying or what they will do if it happens will get everyone on the same page.

Turning 18 checklist

For older students, turning 18 is a very important milestone. Once 18 years old, a person becomes an adult from a legal perspective. Quite a bit changes, but a little organization can help everyone involved in the planning process. Autism Housing Pathways is a great source of information, and provides an important checklist which you can access on their website here.

Special Education Parent Action Committees (SEPAC)
SEPACS are very important in making sure the voices of the community are heard by schools, who want to hear what you have to say about educational services. Involvement in SEPACS can also lead to making sure that town leaders are aware of services that are needed in your school. Family members have very important and meaningful input to discussions about services. Learn more from the Federation for Children with Special Needs website here.

Transition Fair

Family Empowerment’s Transition Fair (similar to a college fair) addresses the needs of students with a broad range of abilities and learning differences, aged 14-22+. The Fair highlights options and supports for all students with learning differences who want to explore post secondary education and employment possibilities. This is a free community event for school and service professionals, and parents and students. The fair will be held on October 16, 2019 at the Hadley Farms Meeting House from 5:00-8:00 pm. Contact joanne.lucey@pathlightgroup.org with any questions.

FREE BACKPACKS (for K-12 in North Quabbin area)

Patch Parent’s Council Annual Backpack Distribution is Tuesday, August 13, 2019 from 10am-12pm and 1-3pm at ACU Community Room, 527 Main Street in Athol. Backpacks will be distributed on a first come, first served basis, while supplies last. Contact Kelly Flaherty with questions: 978-5070 ext 30.
WEBINARS

What is Neurodiversity?
An AANE webinar for parents, adults and professionals
Thursday, August 22, 2019
7:00pm-8:30pm
Online
Register ($25)

Neurodiversity: What is it? What do we mean when we say Inclusion? Is autism a condition or a culture? Answers to these questions and many more will be covered in this exploration of neurodiversity and inclusion in the context of our current cultural and societal landscape. Gain a greater understanding of neurodiversity, how to make inclusion a priority in your life, and a substantial appreciation for neurodiversity as a movement, and its intrinsic role in the autistic culture.

Becca Lory Hector, CAS, BCCS was diagnosed on the autism spectrum as an adult and has since become an active autism advocate, consultant, speaker, and author. After four years supporting the autism community in the non-profit sector in her work for grass-roots organizations that provide resources and services directly to individuals on the autism spectrum, Becca pursued dual certifications as a Certified Autism Specialist (CAS) and Cognitive Specialist (BCCS). She is a board member for several autism organizations and the Assistant Editor and Feature Writer at Spectrum Women Magazine.

This is Me: Portraits of Pathlight is a photography project that focuses the camera lens on people served by Pathlight throughout Western Massachusetts.

Renowned local photographers have partnered with Pathlight to shoot portraits that convey the strength, beauty, complexity, and personality of people with intellectual disabilities and/or autism. All of the portraits will debut that evening, and we will celebrate our Pathlight subjects, the talented photographers and the gorgeous collaboration between all that have made this project possible. The show will then run in the mezzanine gallery through October.

Whole Children's Joyful Chorus will also be performing at 6pm!

Mike Lynch has been organizing the Spring Shootout golf tournament for many years at Chicopee Golf Club in honor of his nephew. This year he also honored Autism Connections by choosing us as the beneficiary of tournament proceeds, which totaled $2775!

Fundraisers like this are an important part of our ability to offer special programming to the community that we can only provide with your help. If you or your organization are interested in holding an event to benefit Autism Connections, please let us know!

Thank you Mike!
